ABOUT PRESENTER

Stephen Rosenbaum is an attorney in the Oakland office of Protection and Advocacy Inc. The organisation is federally funded and operates five offices in California providing legal advocacy and services. Working in an office that serves the multi-cultural population of the San Francisco / Bayside region Stephen works cross-culturally and is a fluent Spanish speaker. Stephen also teaches law at Berkeley (since 1988) and Stanford (since 2005) and he is the parent of a young man with significant disabilities. He will be in Auckland for three weeks during August. The School of Critical Studies in Education, Faculty of Education - University of Auckland and PFRC are supporting his visit.

Stephen brings a further perspective to his work as the parent of a young man with significant disabilities who lives with support in his local community
